one of the twentieth century's most influential texts on philosophical aesthetics painting as an art is acclaimed philosopher richard wollheim's encompassing vision of how to view art transcending the traditional boundaries of art history wollheim draws on his three great passions philosophy psychology and art to present an illuminating theory of the very experience of art he shows how to unlock the meaning of a painting by retrieving almost reenacting the creative activity that produced it in order to fully appreciate a work of art wollheim argues critics must bring a much richer conception of human psychology than they have in the past this classic book points the way to discovering what is most profound and subtle about paintings by major artists such as titian bellini and de kooning leading philosopher richard wollheim recruits into service the insights of literature and of psychoanalysis as well as of philosophy in this rich and thought provoking account of the emotions starting from the premise that emotions form a distinct psychological category wollheim argues that they are like beliefs and desires dispositions or underlying forces in the mind that erupt from time to time into the stream of consciousness however to assimilate emotions to beliefs or to desires or to some combination of the two is quite wrong emotions are attitudes or orientations to the world says the author and in this regard they are naturally associated with the imagination the book considers what emotions are how they arise in our lives and how standard and moral emotions differ wollheim writes within the analytic tradition yet decisively abandons a number of assumptions associated with that tradition and instead develops what he calls the psychologization or repsychologization of the emotions addressing repsychologization of the mind and its contents as a major theme the author offers sustained discussion of the opinions of sartre william james freud melanie klein stendhal montaigne and bertrand russell germs is about first things the seeds from which a life grows as well as about the illnesses it incurs the damage it sustains written at the end of his life by richard wollheim one of the major philosophers of the late twentieth century the book is not the usual story of growing up and getting on but a brilliant recovery and evocation of childhood consciousness and unconsciousness an eerily precise rendering of that primitive formative world we all come from in which we do not know either the world or ourselves for sure and things houses clothes meals parents loom large around us as indispensable as they are out of our control richard wollheim's remarkably original memoir is a disturbing enthralling dispassionate but also deeply personal depiction of a child standing fascinated and fearful on the threshold of individual life this study provides a new interpretation of art after modernism by foregrounding the importance of conceptual thinking as a pervasive force for change in art and art history since 1950 robert bailey shows how distinctions between art and art history gave way as conceptual thinking provided artists and art historians with a common means to reassess what art could be and do in the world bailey assesses the results of artful and scholarly inquiries combining creative activity with intellectual rigor to proffer new approaches to a variety of social and environmental concerns ranging from questions about human identity including race class gender and sexuality to activist efforts to redress everything from abortion access to migrants rights to climate change this book provides both a historical overview of these developments and close analyses of key works and texts spanning 1950 to the present and encompassing broad geographic scope with special attention paid to indigenous art the book will be of interest to scholars working in art history and contemporary art lectures first delivered respectively at barcelona and at lawrence kansas versions of which appeared in 1994 on formalism and its kinds and 2001 on formalism and pictorial organisation plus substantial new material the whole text is reproduced here for the first time the material offers new considerations in favour of his psychological conception of pictorial art as against the semiotic conception arguments for the inadequacy of formalism and close and compelling analyses of pictures by ruysdael monet and others using in novel ways his well known ideas in pictorial aesthetics to arrive at a theory of pictorial organisation second although wollheim was well served by various collections of his work to 1994 at that point some important articles and reviews had yet to be selected for republication in some cases available only in locations difficult to access as well as his having published further work after 1994 the present volume fills both gaps it thus provides the final pieces for a complete collection of wollheim s works in the philosophy of art this is one of three planned volumes of wollheim s previously uncollected work for oxford university press the others are writing on political philosophy edited by jonathan wolff and writing on philosophy and the mind edited by garry hagberg
